Making the most of Remo

How online Networking can help your Business

You can't beat face-to-face meetings, but they can be time consuming. Remo is the best platform I've encountered for online networking, allowing me to meet people from across the UK and Ireland, all in one place – Paul Whitnell, BITA President

Why Network Online?

People have met online now for years; for business and networking, however the majority of people experienced it for the first time in lockdown.

This has meant that it has a negative connotation in most people's minds, and when possible, many prefer to have face to face meetings.

We love face to face networking, it's the best way to create strong foundations of business relationships and what our events are built around!

But - there is also space for online networking. Online networking allows you to have multiple meetings in one space, without leaving your home or office, reducing your carbon footprint and helping mental health by cutting down on long commutes.

It creates more the most valuable commodity we have - time.

BITA has chosen Remo as an excellent networking platform.

Be Heard

Different to many other online platforms, Remo offers the opportunity for natural conversations. You will join a table of 5 other people, and are able to join in the chat with ease.

Meet More People

You can join whatever table you like, meet the people there, and if the table isn't working for you, you just wave and move to a different table!

Chat 121

Joining in with a group is great, but sometimes you need a 121. Our platform also offers spaces where people can meet for a private chat, in twos or threes.

Develop Relationships

Remo has a profile area where you can upload your photo, bio, website, calendar booking options, and socials. So you can find out about the person's business and connect with them to start developing real-world relationships. Many of our regulars have created and maintained excellent relationships through Remo, and then feel like old friends when meeting at an event!
